EDITORIAL

Bumper is, for some reason, the way to describe an issue such as this one. Fifty-two jam packed pages of local news, views and opinions with a smattering of academia interspersed.

It's been a few months since the last BWD so it looks like we might be heading for thirdly frequency rather than quarterly this year.

I need to get as many stories as I can in advance for the next issue. Alison, my partner, and I are off to the USA for three months come July. I should be able to produce the magazine from New York in these days of global inter-connectivity.

If I can, I'm going to pop up to Braidwood Illinois (south of Chicago) and see how they're travelling.

Don't forget to check out our 'Braidwood CBD and Ryrrie Park landscape concept plans' currently on exhibition. You've only got until April 11 to make a submission to QPRC.

If you like the look of the Wallace and Duncan streets intersection, 'olde world' as they are, then you'd better have a look at the plan to extend the kerbs. It'll look different for sure.

I COULDN'T FIT THIS IN LYN'S COOKING SECTION. TOM AND I DO A BIT OF COOKING IN OUR HOUSE AND IT NEVER LOOKS QUITE AS RELAXED AS THIS.

If Husbands did the cooking ...

If husbands did the cooking, every home would have an electric range. No man would put up with the difficulties, the fuss, the heat and the trouble of cooking by flame, so why should a woman tolerate it? Save yourself money, time, energy and worry with a modern approved rapid-heating electric range. A visit to the Queen Victoria Building Showrooms of the Sydney County Council will prove interesting and profitable.
